(2) Inclusion of the above matters shall be permissible on the basis of agreement made later, provided that legal amendment procedure is observed.

Article 1240:

(1) Where one of the partners, on the basis of [an] express special provision of the contract, is assigned with [the] task of administering the company, he shall continue with administering the company and the performance of those tasks which would achieve the objectives of the company, provided his activities and the changes he would bring in the company are free from dishonesty. Dismissal of such partner without any legal reason or amendment of partnership is not permitted as long as the partnership survives.

(2) Where the election of the said partner to the Board of Directors is made on the basis of a later agreement, recourse from it shall be permissible like rescinding from the ordinary agencies. [Sic]

Article 1241:

Where many persons are assigned to carry out the actions of the partnership without having their duties and scope of authorities [sic] determined, each one can independently take part in the administration of the company. However, each of the partners assigned may have the right to object to the job before he performs it. This objection can be turned down by the majority of the partners assigned. In case of equality of votes, the issue will be referred to majority votes of all the partners.

Article 1242:

Where agreement is made in the contract that the decisions would be made by majority of votes of the Board of Directors, objection to such agreement is not permissible unless the objection has been made to perform an urgent work [that] if not done would cause a great loss to the company which cannot be compensated.

Article 1243:

Where it is determined that the resolutions should be passed by majority, it would mean the majority of votes, unless agreement is made to the contrary.

Article 1244:

Shareholders other than the members of Board of Directors shall not have the right to interfere in the administration of the company. However, they can get information personally from the books and records of the company. Any agreement contrary to this shall be deemed null and void.

TOPIC 4—EFFECTS OF PARTNERSHIP

Article 1245:

(1) The partner should refrain from any activity which would be to the loss or against the set aims of the company.

(2) The partner is bound to exert all efforts in the interest of the company in such a way as he usually does for his own personal interests.

However, if he is assigned to carry out the administrative affairs of the company in return to [sic] a payment, he may not pay attention less than an ordinary person.

Article 1246:

(1) Where a partner acquires or takes possession of some property or a sum of money from the company, he shall be bound without any judicial demand or warning to pay the interest from the date he has taken possession of the property. In case necessary, he shall be made bound to pay the compensation for the loss inflicted.

(2) Where a partner spends some of his property for the benefit of the company or makes useful spendings [sic] with goodwill in the interest of the company, he shall get the interest of his sums spent or paid from the company since the date when the payment is made.

Article 1247:

(1) Where the assets of the company do not suffice the [sic] liabilities, the partners shall be bound to make proportionate contributions from their personal properties, according to their shares, for the fulfillment of the debts and compensation of the losses incurred, unless other arrangement has been agreed upon.

(2) The agreement of partners for their irresponsibility [sic] for the debts of the company shall not be valid.

Article 1248:

(1) The partners shall not be deemed as sureties against each other in respect of the debts of the company for the payment of which they are made responsible, unless otherwise is agreed upon.

(2) In the event of bankruptcy of one of the partners, his share of the losses incurred shall be divided proportionately among other partners.

Article 1249:

Where one of the partners is indebted, the creditors cannot demand their rights from the share which the indebted partner holds in the capital of the company. However, such demand can be made out of the profits of the indebted partner collected in the company. In the event when the company is dissolved, the creditors can demand their rights from the share of the indebted partner in the capital of the company, provided the time for payment of the debt is due.

Nevertheless, the creditors have the right to demand, prior to the dissolution of the company, from [sic] the company to impose precautionary restriction on the share of [the] indebted partner.

- 5 – Withdrawing [sic] of one of the partners from the partnership when the period of the activity of the company is unlimited, provided that the partner declares his intention of withdrawal [to the] other partners 3 months in advance. Otherwise, his withdrawal would be deemed arising from dishonesty or it would be considered inappropriate, unless agreement is made to the contrary.
- 6 – Agreement of the partners to dissolve the company.
- 7 – Order of the court for dissolution of the company.

Article 1251:

(1) The agreement of the partners to the effect that after the death of one of the partners, the partnership should continue with of [sic] his heir, though he may be incapable, is permissible.

(2) The agreement of the partners to the effect that in case of the death, order of court for dispossession, or bankruptcy or withdrawal of one of the partners, the partnership should continue among the remaining partners, is permissible. In this case, the said partner and his heirs shall not have any right save to their share they hold in the assets of the company according to the daily prevailing price. The share shall be paid in cash and he shall not enjoy the rights which may be created later except what is accrued from the result of the accomplishments of the company prior to his withdrawal from the company.

Article 1252:

(1) Where the fixed period of partnership expires or the activity for which the company has been established ends up [sic] and the partners, nevertheless, decide to embark on such activity which is the objective of the establishment of the company, the contract shall be extended year by year with the same terms.

(2) The creditors of one of the partners can object to the extension of the activity of the company as provided by the above clause [sic] of this article. and can stop the partnership of the indebted partner.

Article 1253:

The court can make order for dissolution of the company on the basis of the demand made by one of the partners by reason of nonfulfillment of the obligations of the respective partner or by other rational arguments presented for the dissolution of the company. Whatever agreement is made to the contrary shall not be valid.

Article 1254:

(1) A partner can demand from the court the exclusion of any partner whose activities would result in the dissolution of the company or cause objection to its extension.

(2) In case the period of the activity of the company is limited, any partner can demand from the court his exclusion from the partnership by presenting good reasons. In this case, the company shall be dissolved unless the remaining partners agree to the continuation of the partnership.

TOPIC 6—LIQUIDATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF PARTNERSHIP ASSETS
